

National solar power generation policy released

With an ambitious target of generating 40% of the nation's electricity from solar sources by 2035, the law establishes unprecedented tax credits for solar installations, streamlines permitting ...

In our STEO forecast, utility-scale solar is the fastest-growing source of electricity generation in the United States, increasing from 290 BkWh in 2025 to 424 BkWh by 2027. Almost 70 ...

The continued growth of the distributed solar market has prompted electric utilities, regulators, and others to consider improvements to the interconnection processes. Below are ...

At the federal level, there are several key policies, programs, and regulations that impact the development of solar PV and other renewable energy projects, influencing project procurement ...

-- Today the Solar Energy Industries Association (SEIA) is unveiling a new policy agenda that details the critical actions that local, state, and federal leaders must take to strengthen the ...

Taken together, these efforts illustrate the Biden Administration's multipronged approach to incentivizing solar energy generation and other renewable energy sources in the United States.

We will no longer allow foreign-made solar panels or inefficient energy projects to undermine our national security. We are prioritizing reliable power sources, reducing costs, and ...

Explore key U.S. solar policy changes from May 2024, including state-level reforms, federal shifts, and trade updates impacting the industry.

Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory compiled and synthesized empirical data on the U.S. utility-scale solar sector. The focus is on ground-mounted systems larger than 5M AC, including ...

According to Bresette, it should have been enacted in 2023, but has been given a one-year extension. "Things have really started to pick up in activity." The House Agriculture Committee ...

Web: <https://capturedmoments.co.za>